Bishop of Winchester to Bishop C. P. McIlvaine

July 18, 1864

My very dear Bishop,

Carus has communicated to me the intelligence of your actual descent upon our shores, & I hope this will meet you with a most hearty greeting on your arrival in London. It is delightful to think that we shall visit again - & as I trust ever long. I shall be about on Saturday next, for the day, & from Monday till Friday the 29th, both inclusive. After that day, I shall be here as far as I know, except on the 10th & 12th of August, till Monday the 15th - and at any time convenient to you, unless on the excepted days, we shall be most glad to receive you & your family party here. We includes the Milford's who are now in residence.

I understand that you have left behind, to my great sorrow, not only Mrs. McIlvaine, but _____ the _____ & her sister, but that you have others with you, whom I shall cordially welcome.

Most affectionately yours,

Bp. of Winchester

Bishop McIlvaine

P. S. How pleasant again to address this to you in England!
